

Dr. Jace HARGIS

Dr. Jace Hargis is currently a Professor and Director of the Center for Teaching and Learning at NYU, Shanghai. His prior positions include a Professor and Associate Provost in Hawaii; a College Director in Abu Dhabi, UAE; an Associate Professor and Assistant Provost in northern California; and an Assistant Professor and Director of Faculty Development in Florida. He has authored a textbook, an anthology and published over 140 academic articles as well as offered hundreds of academic presentations. He has earned a BS in Oceanography from Florida Institute of Technology; an MS in Environmental Engineering Sciences and a PhD in Science Education from the University of Florida. Dr. Hargis' research focuses on how people learn while integrating appropriate, relevant and meaningful instructional technologies.

Email: jeh14@nyu.edu